

NATIONAL LIBERAL CLUB

Bluecrow Projects had the wonderful opportunity to work within the National Liberal Club building. Working behind the scenes on this beautiful Victorian building, we started with the strip out works. This included the removal of the existing false ceiling grids, walls and hundreds of metres of floor tiles.

A new skin installed with existing beams cladded with fireline boards, ceilings insulated and plaster boarded with repairs made to wall tiles and century old timber cladding.

The main floor received a Latex layer to ensure the floor was level for the Graphite finish tiles and cove skirting. Uneven wall surfaces around the perimeter received stud plasterboard walls, encapsulated in Saniclad wall cladding. The project existed of many things, from the huge new kitchens, corridors, changing rooms to the wonderful open ceiling offices.
